Scene when entering Hagley yard at the Blacksmith shop gate.
The road through this gate enters Hagley yard at the Machine shop and Millwright^{shop} door and is practically the dividing point between Upper and Lower Hagley.

The house in the center was part of the old Bark Mill or Tanning mill property and is across the road and opposite the house used as Hagley Office in former years.

This house was used for storage purposes and at one time a cooper worked in it as a shop, keeping in repair powder tubs used in connection with the manufacture of powder.
